

The Model Rag

Volume 4, Number 1

February/March 1990

Single Issue: $3.25

Thanks to "La Mink" for this delightful picture of "Carnal Lust Fiends." The "Ariolimax columbianus", better known as the Banana Slug, is the official mascot of the University of California, Santa Cruz. Must be fun to cheer for the football team, the "Fighting Slugs." "Go Slugs! Slime that offense!"

Inside This Issue...

News on Breyerfest 1990...More Weird Pets...and even Weirder Dead Pets...plus some news on the new Breyer models...and probably the Odds and Ends Column, although Heather never lets me see it until after it's printed...SIGH

About The Model Rag...

The Model Rag was established in 1987 by collectors for collectors. The format was developed based on ideas from many people actively involved in all aspects of the hobby, and is flexible to the changing needs of our readers.

In order to allow you to more easily locate the information that you are most interested in, The Model Rag is divided into separate sections:

- For Sale
- Wanted
- Miscellaneous (repainting and tack services, clubs, personals, etc.)
- Showtime
- "People, Places & Things" (to fill you in on the people, places and things that make this hobby special)
- "The Litterbox" (our commentary section, where you can get the latest information on what's new from the manufacturers, special runs, and who doing what to whom).

We offer articles on various topics of interest to the hobby, and also have several reoccurring columns, such as Cheap Thrills, Madeline's Newsletter, and Laurie's Drivel Column (O.K., we know the Drivel Column is a little, um... different, but it grows on you! Besides, what other model horse publication offers a column that even non-hobbyists look forward to reading!)

Subscriptions

Breyer Classic Arabian Family in Dapple Grey

This complete special run family was sent to England only so we imported it back.

Starting Bid is $95.00 and the deadline is March 24, 1990.

There is a quick sale price of $200.00 (which I don't expect to reach but people do ask). This means the first person to offer that amount get the models. It supersedes the auction.

CHEAP THRILLS

Send submissions to: Gale Good, 1359 Sherrill, Anaheim, CA 92804

Did everyone have a horsey Christmas? It certainly was the best I've ever had. There was a cute pony in the Thelwell series; two gorgeous carousel horse sweat shirts; a Breyer red-eyed glossy white Mustang; a whole passel of old Breyers which, of course, included another red-eyed white Mustang (anybody want to trade their old grey Belgian in perfect condition for him?); a Lenox carousel unicorn and a Thoroughbred; Franklin Mint's Racing The Wind (my present to myself); AND the Hagen-Renaker Bedouin. To say I was floored by this last gift would be the understatement of all time. Thanks to all my modelly friends (they know who they are) who made this a Christmas to remember.

Lynn Lindgren of Arizona was walking through her favorite antique shop one day with a whopping $12 in her pocket when she spotted an old mold bay Proud Arab Mare with a Mickey Mouse doll riding it. Before checking the price she was wondering if they took layaway and then found it was only $4!! She thought that since it didn't have the Breyer stamp on it the dealer may not have known what it was. Too bad, Mickey. Maybe you can go to the next booth and ride the $18 Family Arab Stallion in matt palomino. (I know what you're saying about the mold markings. A lot of sellers, even at swapmeets, are pricing the models at $10-$15 using the excuse that they're 'Breyers' or 'signed'. We're talking current or models just discontinued that are rubbed, scratched, or even broken.--Gale)

At Bonnie and Darian's live model horse show in January Kim Jones showed me an unusual HR mini Percheron. It's what they called the dapple grey. The 'dappling' was done simply by touching the paint with their fingers before it dried thus creating a spotted effect. This is color version not commonly found.

Warren, Wendy Frederickson's husband, brought home an HR Domino with sticker and a few of those ridiculous HR Little Horribles. The Purple People Eater actually had one of the wings still attached which I'm told is very rare. Too fragile, I guess.

Believe it or not, we got a letter from Christine White in far-off Alaska. About 11 years ago when she was at a flea market in San Bernardino she saw a glossy Appaloosa rearing horse in beautiful condition complete with pads on his feet and tail. She had a small collection at that time but didn't know much about the world of model collecting. Still she spent the last $5 in her pocket (all you poor people sound like me--Gale) and he remained her favorite throughout the years of getting married and moving first to Germany then Alaska. With coaxing by her best friend, Shirley Wyatt, Christine has gotten more involved with photo showing and custom reworking. The Appaloosa is doing well for her, too. He took second in a rather large stallion class at last year's live summer show in Alaska; losing out to another one of her horses. (Capturing first and second ain't bad at all--Gale.)

Kathleen Moody (sculptress extraordinaire) received a nice surprise from the family. Her Mom and Dad went to Idaho on vacation and her mother picked up a 'cute little donkey' with leather harness. She kept Kathleen wondering for ages until she mailed it to her. Said she paid a whopping $10 for it but thought Kathleen didn't have one. It turned out to be a Breyer Balking Mule in Seal Brown in mint condition. The makeshift harness had kept it from getting scuffed and scratched all this time and was easily removeable. And now for the kicker: Her mother said there were two of them! Fast talker that she is, Kathleen talked her mom into calling her friends in Idaho to find someone who would go back to the shop and pick up the other mule. Unfortunately, when the friend arrived, the shopkeeper said he had just sold it to an old man who wanted it for his granddaughter to play with in the sandbox(!!!) Another true classic model bites the dust (literally in this case!) (I would have cried, too.--Gale)

P.S. Kathleen--Send me a photo of the horse you think is a Morton Studio and we'll check to see if that's what it is and who might need it.

As you saw from last issue's 1989 Breyer wrap-up list, it was another stellar year for collectors. Of the 177 models I added to my collection last year over half were Breyers (and 1/4 were HRs). This year's Breyer lineup looks very, very good and I'm excited by the Saddlebred Weanling and Pacer who have been re-tooled. Pictures of both pieces don't do them justice.

Beswicks are gainly in popularity just as the parent company, Royal Doulton, is discontinuing many of the equine series. For those interested in forming a Beswick Club, contact me (Gale) or Heather Wells. Send a self-addressed stamped postcard and we'll get back to you about the details.

For those of you who are into fantasy, this year marks the 50th Anniversary of the movie FANTASIA's release. In the past there have been figurines unicorns, centaurs and pegasus, both large and small, by Vernon Kiln, Hagen-Renaker and Enesco as well as other assorted photos and drawings. Hopefully, they will offer more items based on the Pastoral sequence this time. Most of the collectible items are of Mickey as the Sorcerer's Apprentice. There is, however, a set of six coins: one is a centaur dancing with a centaurette and the other depicts the pegasus family in flight. 6-7" color plates with the same scenes as the coins are also available. Maybe they'll do some figurines too!

DRIVEL DRIVEL DRIVEL DRIVEL DRIVEL DRIVEL DRIVEL DRIVEL DRIVEL

Hello out there all you weird, weird, weird people!! I have so much stuff that you guys have sent. I have no idea where you people find this stuff, and I don't WANT to know.

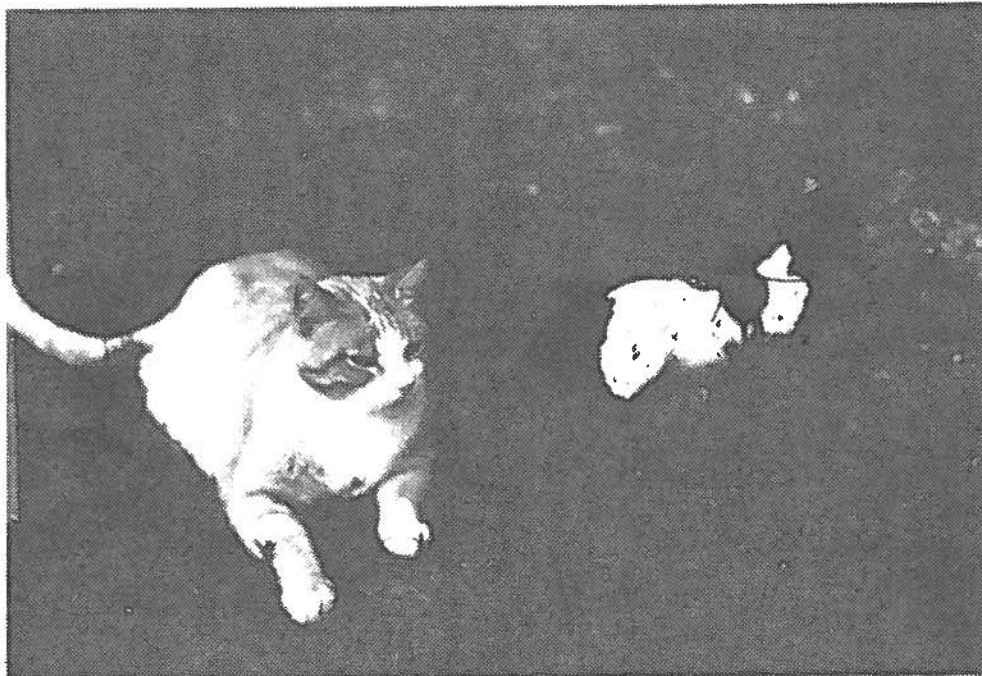

First, I guess Cheryl M. has renamed this column "Laurie's Trivial Column." I don't know which is more descriptive of the contents of this bit of literary fluff... "Drivel" or "Trivial"...Laurie's "Trivial Drivel??" Thanks, Cheryl. You are a real ego booster. Glad what I have to say carries such weight.

Ah. Now to attack the stack. (Kay here - I'm sorry...is that "stack" or "Stack?" I would guess it is "Stack," if your Stack is anything like my Rag Pile. I secretly believe that these ads multiply during the night...) Many weird pets were sent in. Pictures of weird pets, that is. Not the weird pets themselves. Thank goodness. (I'm sure your local postal carrier feels the same way...) Here is Renee M. with her cuddly little reptilian pal, "Rex the Wonder Lizard." Rex is one of the cutest iguanas that I have seen. Don't you all agree? (Well...if you happen to like having a head purse for a pet...)

Here is a photo of Rebecca H's kitty posing with his model horse. The cat's name is "Chowder." The horse's name is not mentioned. Any ideas, Kay? (Well, given the embarrassment this poor horse was due to suffer from his peers over having his photo in The Model Rag, much less with a giant pussy cat...he probably consented only on the condition that he would remain anonymous)

This isn't exactly a weird pet...but it is weird. And dead. A weird, dead pet? (Why do you sound surprised? Remember where you are..."The Model Rag...Home of the Weird, Dead, Stuffed Thing Fancier and Storm Door Society.") Anyhow, Julie F. sent this advertisement for the "Lucky Squirrel Feeder"...From the looks of this particular squirrel, I'd Lucky squirrels dine in style — safely removed from your birdseed dispenser — with our ingenious feeder from Wildwood Farms. It comes complete with high-backed chair and pedestal table and has a stainless steel spike that holds the entree securely in place. Handcrafted from natural rough-sawn wood, about sixteen inches high. And ready to nail on any handy tree trunk or fence post. We'll include a dozen ears (about six pounds) of dried corn-on-the-cob to get the show started. #11-18977-6. Orig. 35.00 NOW 29.00

Child (as opposed to Merryl the Chair, Merryl the Fruit-Bat, etc.) decided that Mr. Pompom Frog needed a soothing bubble bath after his arrival. I rescued him once. A few hours later I noticed that his little, sopping, wadded-up form was no longer in the soap dish. His disappearance coincided, naturally, with the fact that the sink would no longer drain. Ha. "Mr Pompom Frog meets Mr. Drano." Nah. I just used the drain snake. He came us with a perfectly disgusting gob of I don't want to know what it was. Kak!!

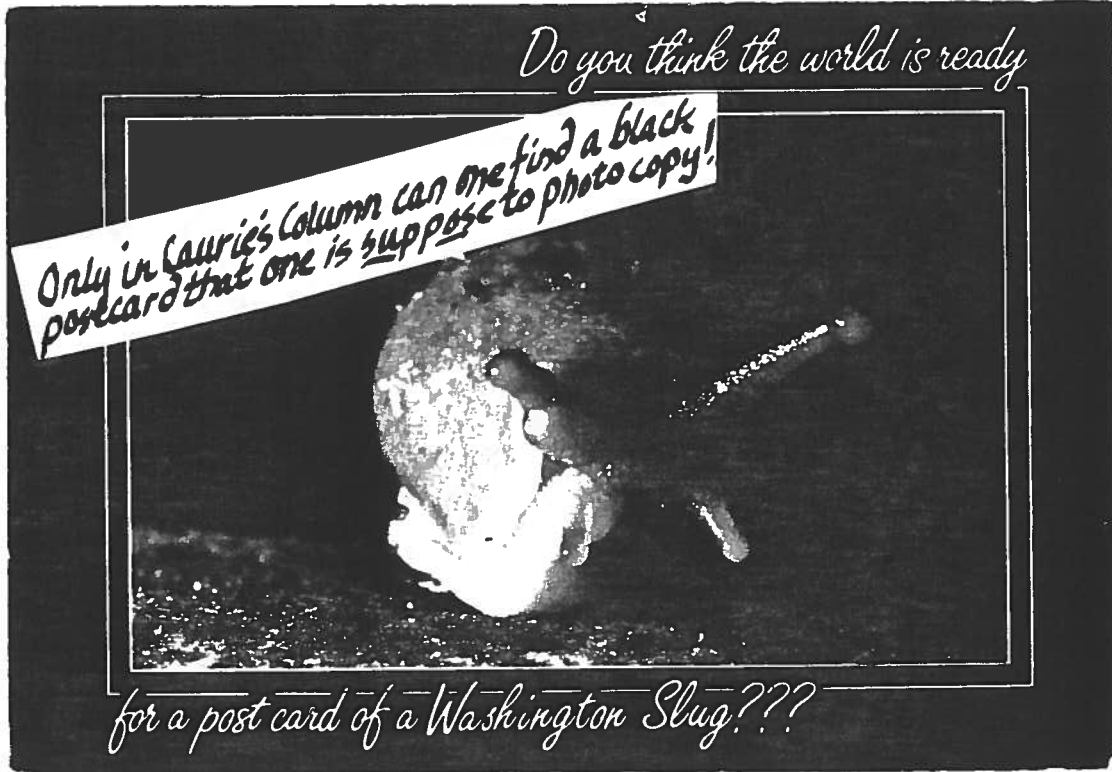

And speaking of disgusting, Alice H. sent me a larger-than-life (thank goodness!) postcard of a Washington slug. (While we're on the subject of slugs, I would like to extend my sympathies to Kathy M. who is being forced to endure NOT ONLY slugs in the Drivel, but a lovely pair on the cover as well. Well, Kathy, I say that "Lucky" is not the best adjective to use when describing him. See? (You're right...although the term "Lucky Stiff" might be more appropriate...)

Julie writes, "Patented Dead Squirrel Feeder, to be sure that your dear departed rodent will have enough to eat in the afterlife." (I guess we should have waited until the next Rodent issue to include this...)

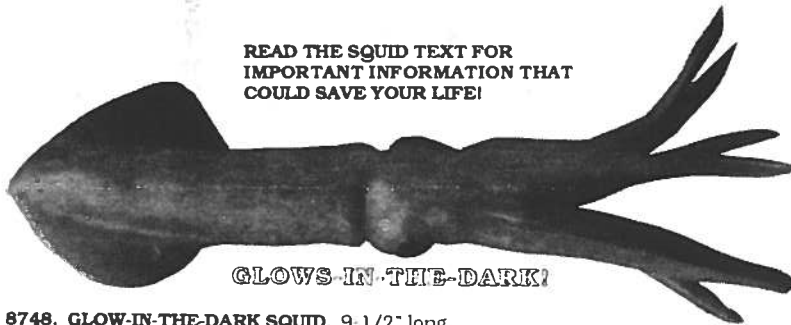

Got some not weird pet pix from a nice person...I put the envelope aside and it has yet to surface...it had cute dogs and an owl. (I shudder to think what the cute dogs and the owl were doing together...oh wait, you said this was a NICE person? Come on...you really except us to believe that you have NICE people sending you things? Ha!) Anyway, I found Liz's ugly lawn decoration pix so I will find the not weird pet pix. These things just take some time. Got a different note from Julie F. that has a quote, "He who cleaneth an attic, hath no soul"...hmmm. I don't have an attic. She obviously has one, and had found all kinds of things...(Can you all see this one coming?)...guess she found some old things, along with deadly prehistoric "Saber Toothed Dust Bunnies." She solved her problem by sending the flotsam (no jetsam?) from her mad cleaning rampage to...me. Gee. Thanks. Amongst the debris in the box she sent was a little green pom-pom frog. He was pretty cute. That's right, WAS. Past tense. Merryl the guess you'll just have to send us in some more "unslug-ly" cover photo material!) Isn't he something?

I love his fladdle-laddle-y eyestalks. And speaking of fladdle laddle...(Linda S...Ha ha ha...Got your letter. Your husband is classic.) I simply must order one of these deluxe squeaking octopuses (octopi?) (octopice) from Archie McPhee. Got to be prepared for this year's live show season. Maybe I should get some glow in the dark squids for the WRC punchbowl. Right, Ed? (Yum...)

CEPHALOPODS

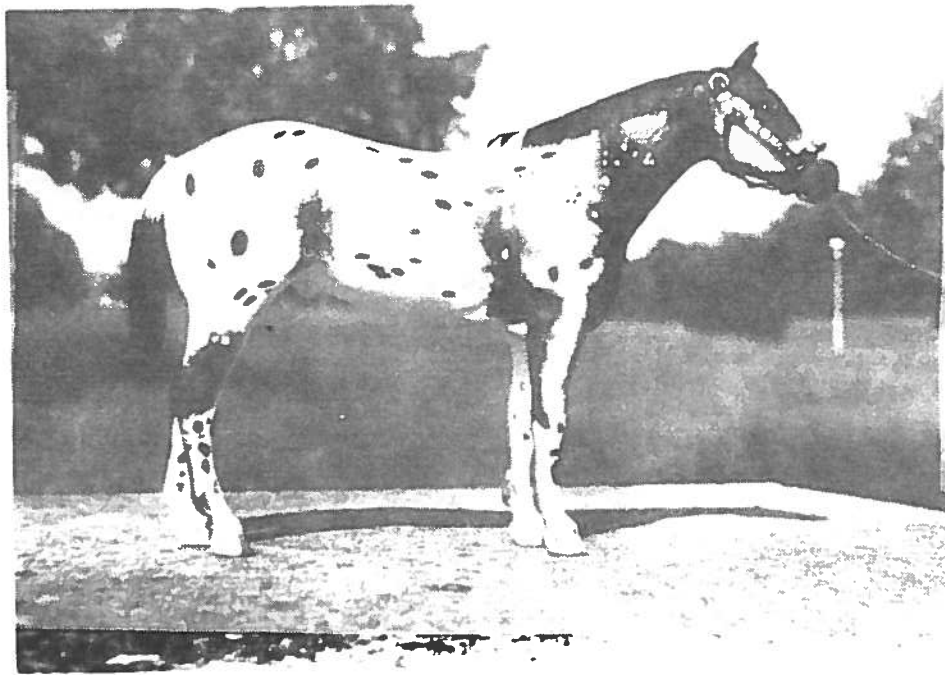

WRC, incidentally, is in Oakland on June 23-24. I know I have totally confused you all by changing where, then when, then where with the same when, and now you all hate me (Well, yeah, but what's your point?). Well, I like you guys. So come on up to Oakland...I would love to meet you all. And I promise not to embarrass you. I will be too busy embarrassing myself (Oh...I have faith in you...I'm sure you'd find time to embarrass us!).

And speaking of embarrassing...my M.U.C. (Mandatory Ugly Chair) is now out of my home! It's in my garage (Well, that's a start). Ah, but Julie (again) writes..."Remember what we were saying about the ubiquitous living room horror (i.e. chair) that everyone is required (by law! Do NOT remove upon penalty of persecution, torture, and being forcibly given a Toni Home Permanent!) to have in their house?...Well, I think that there is also some clause...that states that every home owned by a person with one molecule of creativity in their littlest finger (either hand) must save anything that look of the furthest and remotest value to a creative endeavor, in a chest of drawers (that stick) crammed...so that each drawer is permanently and solidly welded into place..." Hmmm, my "Black Hole Buffet" fits that description...actually, my entire house fits that description, unfortunately (somebody had to say it...). I always joke about my housekeeping habits (a misnomer on both counts)...when someone comes to the door (WITHOUT WARNING!), I declare, "Who could have done this (pointing to debris)...I have no enemies!?!)" (Well, it could always be the "Preservation of Slugs' Dignity Foundation"; I mean, you haven't exactly furthered their cause, you know...) Or I say, "Oh! You must be from the Bomb Squad!" Ha ha. My house. A veritable dumpster with a front door.

I will never again be so stupid as to ask for more snacks (Watch out, gentle readers! A phrase like that is always a warning to those with weak stomachs...) Remember the canned slugs that Daphne sent me? Well, Renee M. sent me a package of snacks. And I ate them in front of someone to document the event. Who was it? Darian? Heather? (Obviously whoever it is they are wisely keeping their mouths shut...so to speak...) Anyway, if anyone remembers the evening that I ate the tiny little whole dried fishlets with slivered almonds, let me know. I had a glass (bottle) of wine or two (dozen) in order to shore up my courage before consuming my snack (I bet you did!). They weren't too awfully bad, I think (I rest my case...) I ate them all. I had to. They were staring at me. (When they start to talk...sell.)

Now...on to the Bow Wow section. I have a nice horse for you to see, and it's in the B.W. section because I owe Corky (That's Corky V., in case any of you were confused as to WHICH Corky Laurie is talking about...) an apology for letting people think that the one she sent a while ago was by her...and it wasn't...so I asked her to send a pic of her nice work (and it's wonderful) to try to kiss up to her so that she will continue to speak to me...so here is the Nice Horse Of The Issue...

See? Nice Horse. (See Spot. See Spot use Nice Horse as 'hew toy...Oh, sorry...I've wandered off into another plot line...) Definitely not a Bow Wow.

Corky cracks me up. A while back, she and Ardith (Again, hat's Ardith C., to avoid any mistaken identities...) moved to a new pad. Corky describes it: 'It's the coolest place...beaded bamboo curtains...we just bought two tacky lamps at a big wicker sale -- a hearty peasant lad and lassie, lugging big wicker baskets and singing their hearty peasant songs as they go out to harvest, each standing near a convenient tree with a lamp growing out of the top of it.' (Mandatory Ugly Lamps?)

And now for something completely different (shudder). (Without warning) I procured for y'all an interesting bit of artwork done by my friend, Bill Parsley (not to be confused with Bill my husband) (or Bill the Child, Bill the Chair, Bill the Fruit-Bat, etc...) that I had to show you...he made it by cutting up and re-assembling (in the wrong order, obviously) one of those boring "First Aid" posters that hang in free clinics nationwide. Anyway, here it is...(See next page)

Last thing before I go...Paula H. writes: "Got an interesting piece of mail...some people want me to buy my personal horoscope for a mere $40.00...If I buy it, I get a free diamond ring identical to that of Princess Di...it is so valuable that a uniformed government official (perhaps also known as a mailman?) will bring it to my door! In order to receive the ring I have to sign an affidavit saying that I will not sell the ring at any price!!" Well, now I am really depressed. How come I never get any of these incredible offers? (Oh, come on...YOU'RE the one who gets Dried Fishlet Snacks, and whole Pacific Coast Slugs sent to you from your adoring fans...sheesh...)

Lots more stuff here. I enjoy it, really...even tho it takes me a while sometimes to use it in the Trivial Drivel. Until next time, I remain.....Laurie Jo-Mama.

PEOPLE, PLACES & THINGS PEOPLE, PLACES & THINGS

EDITOR'S NOTE: Howdy folks! Well...the beginning of our FOURTH year! Unbelievable! Only a little late this time, too. I (Kay) was travelling on business for most of the last three weeks of January, which didn't help getting the Rag done on time. We apologize for the delay last issue - December is the busiest month of the year in my office, which combined with our faithful printer being closed when we finally got everything together put us really behind schedule.

Anyway...thank you to all who had patience with us. I would also ask that if the Rag is late getting to you and you are concerned that the issue was not mailed to you, please contact Heather, not me. Once the issue is formatted and ready to go the printer, it is sent to Heather, who gets all of the copies made and mails it out.

On another note...if anyone writes to me requesting a response prior to the next issue being compiled, please write "RESPONSE REQUESTED" or something similar on the lower left corner of the envelope. My schedule is such that all the Rag mail goes into a bin until the 20th of the month when I open everything and start wading through it. So if you let me know I need to answer you, I'll be sure to see it. Well, that's it for this issue - till next time.

Two issues ago, the Rag Bag put up several "model lore" questions to our reading public. Here are the responses we received for two of them:

1. Q: What Breyer animals came on lamps?
A: From our various contacts, we have heard of the following: Longhorn in woodgrain (see S. Rowe's ad last issue!), Running Mare and Foal in both woodgrain and bay, Brown Bear and Cub, White Poodle, Fighting Stallion in woodgrain, FAF in woodgrain, and the 5-Gaiter in sorrel with eyewhites. In addition, as noted in this ad from Western Horseman (January, 1972), the Western Prancer was also a "lamp horse." None of the lamps were made by Breyer; they were all produced by other companies. Most had the same basic stand, pole and shade, although we have also seen some wall lamps (with woodgrain Running Foal). Some that have been seen were home made; one man in Del Mar makes a lamp that has a fence with a Classic TB model on it.

2. Q: What is the difference between the "Old Mold" PAM and today's?
A: The Old Mold PAM was produced from 1956-60 in glossy bay, alabaster, grey appaloosa, and (supposedly) palomino. They were discontinued in 1960 after a lawsuit was threatened by H-R. In 1970, after the PAS was introduced, the PAM was brought back into production. Unfortunately, it was discovered that the left side of the mold was missing and had to be recast, and the "cooling boards" for both the mare and foal had to be redone. As a result, the later version of the mare toes out, and the foal's front legs are splayed.

More later! Have any other questions? Send them in!

You've probably all heard about the upcoming Breyerfest 1990 to be held at the Kentucky Horse Park at the end of July. At the charity dinner, they will be giving out a special model, "Dr. Peaches", #803 in bay. There will only be one per person available. Proceeds from the dinner will go to save the Misty of Chincoteague Park, and Marguerite Henry will be a special guest. The Model Rag will (hopefully) be represented at the festivities by (drum roll!) Kay, who will be bringing her un-model husband all the way to Kentucky on his birthday no less! Gosh, what more could he ask for!

Breyer dealer catalogs will be available later this month, with the new consumer catalogs coming out in March. Several of the new models are already hitting the streets, but the new Khemosabi and Roemer molds will be the last ones out.

For some details on the new colors: The Blanket Appaloosa mold is being done in 2 colors this year - one will be a Bay Blanket Appaloosa, and one will be a palomino (not appaloosa); the Palomino will be called the Comanche Pony. The Brenda Breyer #498, #499 and #500 are being discontinued; she will no longer be available in western, English, or denim outfits, but she is coming back in a Dressage outfit and a show jumping outfit! The American Mustang will be a black and brown and white Paint. Also, there will be new blankets and shipping boots in the 1990 Breyer line. Thanks to Jody H. for filling us in on all the hot news!

News from the H-R front as well...Heather went to a dealer's gift show, and got to see some of the neat things that H-R has in store for us. First was the new mini horse, about the same size as the postage stamp horses. This one is grey/white and is trotting "kind of on its haunches." Should be ready in the fall, if we're lucky. Also there was a 4" Seahorse on a coral base, done in a "Luster finish," i.e. iridescent. They also had a Mermaid in the luster finish, as well as a giraffe in Stoneware, lying with its head up, about 5" tall in a brown with gold/orange spots. H-R is also re-tooling the Lion. Heather said the H-R book was being sold at the trade show - good job!

"Not bad, but you guys wanna see a really small horse?"
